KING'S ROAD LANDSLIDE One Man Killed

A landslide crushed the roof of an unnumbered hut built on the slope of a hill at King's Road, near Ming Yuen's Garden at 7.45 this morning killing one and injuring three. According to a report the four male occupants had no chance of escaping as they were still in bed when the landslide occurred.

On the arrival of the Fire Brigade and the Police the body of Chau Ng-nah 22, a Cantonese, was found dead. The injured were rushed to the Queen Mary Hospital where Poon Sit-sung, 31, Ip-kum-to, 53 and one unidentified man. All Northerners, they were employees of the Yick Sun Construction Co.

Striking Policemen Returning

Cairo, June 12. Forty per cent of Khartoum's strike-bound police force—400 men out of 1,000—returned to work today.

The policemen walked out on June 8 claiming the right to set up their own union and write its statutes.

The return to work movement started after the government warned on Sunday that strikers would be dismissed if they were not back within 24 hours. All the returning policemen were asked to register and each case is being examined by the authorities, with "undesirables" being dismissed.

Meanwhile, the search was still going on today for the remaining inmates of Khartoum gaol who, spurred on by the strike, broke out of gaol and looted the city's market on Sunday.

Police reported today that 24 of the 30 who escaped had been recaptured. — Associated Press.

Reds And Fascists Poll Heavily In New Italian Elections

Rome, June 12.

A heavy Communist vote and a resurgence of Fascist strength emerged tonight in Italy's election returns. The combined effect of the two forces appeared likely to trim the proportions of the government-led anti-Communist forces' success.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrat coalition, however, won 16 of the 30 provincial capitals to the Communists' 13 on the basis of unofficial returns.

The Italian Monarchist Party, which wants to bring King Umberto back to the throne, won one—the city of Lecce.

The Christian Democrats and their allies striped the Communists of the important motor-making city of Turin, the ancient free cities of Florence and Pisa and three other provincial capitals. The other 10 were already under anti-Communist administration.

The Reds, second largest Communist Party in Europe outside Russia, kept their grip, however, on seven provincial capitals in the strategic "Gothic Line".

They wrested the port of Brindisi, where much of the American arms aid for Italy has been unloaded, from the Christian Democrat bloc, and held firmly to the ports of Taranto and Leghorn.

PROVINCIAL STRENGTH
The extent of Neo-Fascist and Communist strength was reflected in the total vote in provincial capitals.

The Communists polled 792,832 votes to 85,832 for the de Gasperi forces, according to the unofficial count.

The Neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) showed themselves four times stronger than in the 1948 Parliamentary elections.

Unofficial returns showed they polled 123,794 votes in 24 of the 30 provincial capitals. In 1948 their vote in the same cities was 31,770.

There were indications that the MSI might compete with the Liberals and anti-Communist Socialists for third place among Italy's political parties.

France Seeks Reparations

Paris, June 12.

France has advised the United States she is anxious to collect $2,000,000,000 in reparations as part of a general settlement with Japan.

A Foreign Office spokesman said today that the French Republic policy adviser John Foster Dulles raised no objection to the French claim during conversations here about a Japanese peace treaty.

The French, who said their talks with Mr Dulles yesterday ended with "agreement in principle" on the broad terms of a treaty, also asked for guarantees against re-emergence of Japan as a dominant economic power in the Pacific.

Another request they left with him was the inclusion of the Associated States of Indo-China—virtually under French control—as participants in any final peace pact signing.

The Foreign Office said it was "quite pleased" with Mr Dulles' reaction. — Associated Press.

MISSING BRITONS MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED Poet-Friend's Disclosures

Ischia, Italy, June 12.

Guy Francis de Moncy Burgess was an open Communist and a close friend of Dr Alan Nunn May, the atom spy, before he joined the Foreign Office, said Wylan Hugh Auden, the poet, here tonight.

Mr Auden, the 44-year-old auburn-haired English-born intellectual, who went to America in 1939 and is now an American citizen—he served in Spain for the Communists in the Civil War—has known Burgess, the missing diplomat, for 20 years. And he went to school with the other missing official, Donald Duart Maclean.

Here on a sun-seared tourist isle twenty miles from the Italian mainland, Auden's home is under discreet surveillance by plain-clothed Neapolitan security police.

Twice Auden has been questioned because it has been rumoured that his home was to have been the end of the diplomatic line for the runaway Burgess. Armed police have scrutinised the gangways of each tourist ship that docks at Port Ischia and Forio, the end of the tourist route.

All have seen photographs of Burgess and Maclean. Tonight, Auden said: "I have known Burgess since he was at Cambridge. He was an open Communist in the late 1930's. In New York, where I spend six months of the year, we met several times."

While Burgess was at the Embassy in Washington, he was still pro-Communist, Auden said. "We met last in March of this year. We talked about Fuchs and Nunn May. He was his close friend, and Burgess said 'I fully agree with May's action if that was the way his mind worked.' Then I asked him if he had been screened. Burgess spoke of diplomatic immunity."

Auden thinks that both men were forced to quit England on May 25. At that time, Auden was staying with his friend, Stephen Spender, a poet and a former Communist.

DRINKING HEAVILY
Auden believes Maclean ("He knew quite a lot about the atom bomb") may have been murdered after he told what he knew. And that Burgess may have been killed later—because "he was drinking too heavily and could not be trusted to keep silent."

The two diplomats were almost certainly kidnapped in France, said Auden.

Shipping Risks Rates Up

London, June 12.

Shipping risks insurance for the Far East were doubled in some cases by London underwriters today. The rate for import and local voyages to ports north of Canton (China) jumped from 25 to 50 per cent.

The rate for similar voyages to Canton and ports to the south, excluding Formosa, Hongkong, Kowloon and Macao, rose from 25 to 50 per cent.

For export voyages from ports north of Canton up to and including Shanghai, the rate was raised from 25 to 50 per cent. — Reuters.

UN Fighting Forces The Most Effective In History GENERAL MARSHALL'S HIGH TRIBUTE

Washington, June 12.

The Secretary of Defence, General George Marshall, said today that the fighting forces of the 16 countries allied under the United Nations banner in Korea had been welded into one of the most effective fighting forces in history.

Speaking at a press conference only about three hours after his return from a flying trip to Japan and Korea, General Marshall said he could not recall any instance in history in which there was such complete amalgamation of a variety of nationalities under such a cordial relationship and with such extremely good results.

General Marshall gave the Turkish, Filipino and Thai forces a major share of the credit for smashing the Communist "iron triangle" build-up area north of the 38th Parallel. He said this action in blasting the Communist concentration area could prove to be a great setback to the Chinese Reds.

He declined to be drawn into any discussion of the possibility of cease-fire moves in the Korean fighting. He said that the subject had nothing to do with his visit to Korea. However, he added a cryptic remark on the subject. When asked whether he had any information concerning cease-fire moves, he said he had none except those the State Department had announced—if the State Department had announced any.

The Secretary said he did not have any reports from Communist prisoners indicating the effectiveness of the Allied war of attrition but he had been informed that the type of prisoner being taken by the United Nations forces was much lower than before.

General Marshall said he had no discussions whatsoever concerning the Japanese peace treaty. He also denied directly that he had taken any new directives to General Matthew Ridgway and that he had talked about a cease-fire or employment of atomic weapons, as has been reported.

Asked whether the removal of General MacArthur had had any effect on troop morale, he said this was not discussed during his trip. He added, however, that troop morale was very high.

TROOPS' OBJECTIVE
The Secretary declined to answer questions on how long a war he foresaw in Korea. He said neither the commanders nor troops in Korea appeared to be paying any attention to the Senatorial debate on MacArthur's removal. He explained that, like all forces engaged in combat, the troops' attention was on the object in front of them—enemy troops.

General Marshall said he talked personally with leaders of all foreign units under the United Nations flag in Korea except those of the Ethiopians and Colombian forces, who were not yet in actual combat. He said these talks were very informative and he believed they would produce good results.

Speaking of the part played by troops in cracking the Reds' "iron triangle" General Marshall said the Koreans made "in this build-up area had surpassed Allied expectations."

When asked whether he planned a trip to Europe this summer, the Secretary said he did not at this time. Mr. General Anthony McAuliffe, who accompanied General Mar-

Mrs Gable Wants To Forget

Honolulu, June 12.

Mrs Clark Gable arrived in Honolulu today aboard the yacht, Pioneer, and said through a spokesman that the matter of alimony from her film idol husband "has not come to my mind."

The former Lady Sylvia Ashley boarded the yacht for a 12-day cruise to "forget" immediately after she filed a suit for divorce on May 31 from Gable.

While she was on high seas, Gable filed an answer in the court denying the charge of cruelty.

Gable described his wife as a millionaire and asked the court not to award her any alimony. No date has yet been set for the trial.

The spokesman and host of Mrs Gable, George Vanderbilt, replied on her behalf to questions from reporters who gathered among a small crowd at the dingy Pier Seven to greet the yacht.

Asked about Gable's plea for relief from alimony, Vanderbilt quoted Mrs Gable as saying: "It never has been discussed and it has not come to my mind."

FOR A REST
Gable "evidently just didn't want to be married any longer," was her answer through Vanderbilt as to the reason for the divorce action. Vanderbilt said Mrs Gable had joined the cruise "to get a rest," adding that she has not been "in very good shape."

Asked to amplify those remarks Vanderbilt said his guest has been "very quiet" throughout the voyage from the mainland.

Mrs Gable stood smiling and waving from the yacht deck as it came into the harbour but as the vessel was being tied up, she went into her cabin. She reappeared after repeated pleas from photographers for an arrival picture, but refused to talk with reporters.

Mrs Gable appeared pale but healthy in her white shorts and a white silk blouse. She wore sun-glasses and is around her neck.

Vanderbilt said the party would stay "nine or 10 days" at the home of his mother, Mrs Margaret Emerson, in nearby Kahala. After that the vessel is due to cruise elsewhere, in French Oceania, United States

British Embargo Tightened

London, June 12.

The British embargo on the export of strategic materials to Communist China will be further strengthened by an order made by the Board of Trade today.

In future there is to be a check on British imports to prevent them, diverting cargoes ostensibly intended for this country to other destinations.

To satisfy themselves that a consignment of strategic material ordered for Britain is, in fact, delivered here, an exporter may from today ask his customer to produce an import certificate issued by the Board of Trade.

After the import certificate has been issued to him the importer will be bound under the new order not to divert the cargo to any other destination without the approval of the Board of Trade. If he does so he will be liable to penalties.—Our Own Correspondent.

King's Health: New Bulletin

London, June 12.

A medical bulletin issued from Buckingham Palace this evening stated that King George had been advised to take a prolonged convalescence. The King has been suffering from a catarrhal infection of the lung for two weeks.

The evening's bulletin said: "The King continues to make good progress. The temperature has been normal for the past week and the inflammation in the lung has subsided."

"In view of the attack of catarrhal infection," His Majesty has suffered this year, we have advised that prolonged convalescence is essential."

The bulletin was signed by four doctors.—Reuters.

COMMENT OF THE DAY

Stagger Our Water Supply

TWO official statements have been made this week regarding the Colony's water supplies—one encouraging and the other discouraging. The arrival of an expert to study the possibilities of a modified Tai Lam Chung reservoir scheme introduces prospects of additional water storage capacity in the not too distant future. Nevertheless there are many whys and wherefores about the project and it is much too early to place strong reliance on the final resolving of the Colony's ever-present problem of adequate water supplies within a foreseeable time. There is room for encouragement, however, in the fact that Government is taking practical steps on a level of urgency to provide the Colony with further water storage facilities. The recommendations of the visiting technical expert will be awaited with the keenest interest. Less happy was the simultaneous disclosure that the hours of domestic water supply cannot be increased from the current 14½ hours a day because our facilities for filtering are inadequate. The Water Authority properly insists that the purity of domestic supplies must be maintained at an approved level which requires that the filtration plant operate 24 hours a day. Even so, it is revealed, the consumption of water is so heavy during the summer months that it is not possible for the filters to purify an output exceeding a 14½-hour period. There is sympathy to be felt for the present Water Authority in his dilemma—he has enough water stored to increase supplies, but cannot take this step because his filtration plant is inadequate. The reason, naturally enough, is the vast increase in Hong-kong's population with the consequent heavier consumption of water. Nevertheless it does appear that Government during the last five years has neglected a very obviously-needed work of expansion—the gradual provision of more filters. The increase in population has not occurred overnight. As far back as late 1946 it was apparent that our population was going to grow into vast numbers. Within 18 months of Liberation we had nearly a million and a half people within our boundaries and all the signs were that expansion of the population would continue, which is precisely what has happened. It seems strange, therefore, that after five years of energetic rehabilitation the Colony should be deficient in such an important facility as water filters. It is presumed that now the shortcoming has been recognised, Government is taking steps to correct the position. Manifestly it is useless embarking on a new catchment and reservoir project until and unless filtration plant is available to handle the extra water which will be caught and stored. In the meantime we must sadly accept the fact that the maximum daily supplies of domestic water during this summer will be 14½ hours. One point arises, however. Can those hours of supply be spread in such a way as to offer the maximum benefit to householders? At the moment a constant supply is available between 6.30 a.m. and 9 p.m. In recent comments we have urged that the supply should be on at a later hour at night during the hot, sticky summer months. This could still be done by staggering the 14½ hours supply available. It would be no serious inconvenience for the supply to be cut off between 2.30 and 4.30 in the afternoon which would then permit extended hours later in the evening. In point of fact if supplies were cut for two hours in the afternoon, and then extended from 9 to 10.30 at night, the Water Authority would save half an hour general consumption a day, at the same time providing householders with a more beneficial service than at present. We feel certain that the majority of residents would, at this time of the year, much prefer to have running water at 10.30 at night than a continuous supply during the day, ceasing at 9 p.m. We advance the suggestion for Government's consideration.

Revelations By General Wedemeyer

MacArthur Rejected Scheme To Safeguard Manchuria From Reds

Washington, June 12.

Lieutenant-General Albert C. Wedemeyer said today that he had asked for seven American divisions to safeguard Manchuria from Russian penetration after the defeat of Japan in World War II.

But, he added, General Douglas MacArthur had turned down his request.

General Wedemeyer told Senators investigating the dismissal of General MacArthur that he wanted to use the American troops to preclude unilateral Soviet action in Manchuria.

He had also wanted to secure the arms of Japanese troops in Manchuria for the Chinese Nationalist forces and to keep them out of the Communists' hands.

General Wedemeyer said that General MacArthur was uncertain about how the Japanese react to the occupation of their homeland and declined to make the troops available.

General Wedemeyer, American theatre commander in China at the end of World War II, said he visualized placing the seven American divisions "up in the north, placing a barrier there so that I would know what was going on and could influence what was going on."

He had been concerned about the intentions and capabilities of Russia in Manchuria and had telegraphed the joint Chiefs of Staff immediately after the war that he doubted whether General Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Government would be able to restore order south of the Great Wall and at the same time recover and rehabilitate Manchuria.

KOREA STALEMATE?

General Wedemeyer said that at present he could see no decisive Allied victory in Korea and believed that the present "unfortunate situation" might go on for months.

His effort put into Korea might leave the United States unable "to fulfill commitments of much greater importance to us from a security viewpoint and from an economic viewpoint later on."

He had spoken earlier of the commitments already made in Europe and said, "We may have to make commitments elsewhere."

When the morning session ended an afternoon meeting was cancelled as Senators had other business.

But the chairman, Senator Richard Russell, ordered a night meeting, the first since the inquiry began.

ARMING OF JAPAN

General Wedemeyer also told the Senators that he favoured re-arming the Japanese but with reservations.

"I would not give them far-reaching offensive capability," he said.

If the Korean war was to be continued, he added, "I definitely think we ought to employ Oriental people who are seeking freedom in our pattern."

The United States should do everything possible to establish a sound economy in any area of the world that she is trying to control or that she does control, General Wedemeyer declared. He would seek to deny Russia rubber and oil.

As to fighting Russia, General Wedemeyer said that he "would take areas from which I could conduct effective air operations."

"I would maintain areas in close proximity to the heart land war-making potential of any enemy and maintain those areas but I would not engage in the land struggle where I would suffer prohibitive losses in manpower,"—Reuter.

WEDMEYER PLAN ATTACKED

Washington, June 12.

The Korean Ambassador, You C. Yang, said today that the withdrawal of American troops from Korea, which was advocated by Lieut. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer in testimony before the Senate joint committee investigating the ouster of Gen. MacArthur, would mean an end of the free world.

In a statement released by the Embassy, Ambassador Yang said such a withdrawal "would mean that the free world would be content to acknowledge that it has been beaten in the very first test with the savage and aggressive Communists. And this, in my opinion, would mean an end of the free world."

The newly-accredited Ambassador added, however, that he called his Government not to be disheartened by Gen. Wedemeyer's recommendation "because in the long history of the American people and their Government they have never been known to let down a friend or let up on the enemy...at least not until they have beaten him,"—United Press.

Egyptian Order For Franco

Cairo, June 12.

It was learned today that King Farouk will send a high Egyptian decoration to the Spanish Chief of State, General Francisco Franco.

The decoration will be carried to Madrid by a senior Egyptian official in June.

General Franco sent King Farouk one of Spain's highest decorations on the occasion of the King's marriage on May 6.

Farouk Has Brush With Press Photographers

Isle of Capri, June 12.

King Farouk and his Queen, the former Miss Narriman Sadek, are expected here on Wednesday with a personal party of 40 and two Egyptian destroyers.

King Farouk and his bride sailed at midnight from Catania, Sicily, on a private yacht after a row with press photographers and newsreel operators who tried to take pictures of the royal couple as they were leaving San Domenico Hotel at Taormina.

King Farouk personally insisted that his bodyguards and the Italian police smash all plates and negatives of photographs taken of him last night. Press photographers presented a formal protest to the Italian police authorities against the "brutal treatment and violation of the principle of the freedom of the Press."

In a bitterly-worded memorandum they said "We have never suffered such insolence from anyone anywhere in our careers."

King Farouk's private yacht, "Marubia," is expected to arrive at Capri at noon on Wednesday. Elaborate preparations were made here for the royal party. Farouk's Sadek, President of the Italian tourist agency, of the

Getting Down To Serious Business

BURMA'S FIRST ELECTIONS:

Anti-Fascists Claim To Have Won Capital

Rangoon, June 12.

The first victory claims in Burma's regional elections today were made by the Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League, who asserted that they had won Rangoon.

Polling in the first instalment of these elections, which was postponed three times because of unrest, closed late today.

Tito Minister Arrested

Belgrade, June 12.

Volslav Szentice, Assistant Yugoslav Minister of Finance, has been arrested on charges of working for the Communists, usually reliable sources said here today.

Important documents on the negotiations between Yugoslavia and the World Bank in connection with a Yugoslav request for a large loan for reconstruction were said to have disappeared.—Reuter.

ESPIONAGE IN GERMANY

Regensburg, Bavaria, June 12.

An American Occupation Court here today sentenced two Germans to 15 and eight years' imprisonment for spying for Czechoslovakia.

The two men are Horst Baumgarten and Peter Horung, both 25. The Court found Baumgarten, a former employee of the American Counter-Intelligence Corps (CIC), guilty of supplying the Czech Intelligence Service with information on Service with members of the Czech refugees, members of the CIC and the equipment and strength of the West German border police.

He was said to have received more than 1,000 marks (over £83) from the Czech Intelligence within nine months for himself, Horung, his hired agent, and Louise Rauscher, who was sentenced to four years' imprisonment last March on similar charges.—Reuter.

This first election of an independent Burma is regarded here as an open struggle between Democracy and Communism. Early reports from the election areas indicated that supporters of the Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League, representing to most Burmese the Democratic Front, turned out in strength in Rangoon City.

Final results in Rangoon are expected on Thursday and those in the interior later in the week. The Burma Workers and Peasants Party, only second in organisation and influence to the AFPFL, is looked upon as the Communist Front.

Police armed with tear-gas bombs and light machine-guns patrolled the city today. Undercover men had previously urged voters to boycott the elections. Every booth was heavily guarded while police reserve stood by at strategic points.

Observers in Rangoon estimated that of the 300,000 electorates in the city only 40 per cent exercised their right.

NOT CONCEDED

In the interior constituencies in Insan, 12 miles outside of Rangoon, Moulin and Mandalay, the AFPFL could give no definite percentage of their strength over the opposition, who would not concede the AFPFL claim until the results of the voting were known.

The Burmese Premier, Thakin Nu, was among the first to cast his vote early today but the President, Sao Shwe Thakhe, remained neutral and did not vote.

Voting today took place in 52 of the country's 250 constituencies.

Until the election is completed in January next year, the present interim Parliament will continue to run the country. This Parliament, however, is below full strength. Forty-five Members have openly joined the rebels and another 20 are trapped in the rebel area.

The Election Supervision Commission has cancelled the elections in constituencies where rebel interference is feared.—Reuter.

Sharp Slap At Germans On Jewish Issue

Frankfurt, June 12.

The United States Government stamped down hard today on a growing movement in Western Germany to wreck the entire programme of returning to Jews property seized from them under the Nazis.

In a sharp letter to the Minister-President of four United States Zone States, the U.S. High Commissioner, Mr. John McCloy, stated flatly that there is no intention of relaxing the policy of forcing the return of property to rightful owners.

Mr. McCloy's letter was in answer to a mounting flood of criticism of the law by German newspapers, officials, individuals and organisations turned to protect the interests of persons who would have to give back property seized under Hitler's racial laws.—United Press.

Ethiopians Want Full Relations With Italy

Washington, June 10.

Ethiopia was reported today to be anxious to renew full diplomatic relations with Italy. Officials said the Ethiopian Foreign Office has told British and United States diplomats in Addis Ababa that it would welcome such a move by Italy.

Italy and Ethiopia have maintained no diplomatic ties since the Italian invasion of 1935.

The British and U.S. Embassies in Rome are expected to send on the Ethiopian request with the recommendation that Italy resume diplomatic relations.

United Nations officials believe that an Italian diplomat on the scene could do much to protect the interests of thousands of Italian settlers who are still in the coastal areas of Ethiopia.—Associated Press.

German Envoys To West

Bonn, June 12.

Western Germany will soon appoint official agents in Washington, London and Paris to take care of the Federal Republic's diplomatic affairs abroad within the limits set by the Occupation Statute.

By the revised Occupation Statute put into effect at the beginning of March this year, the Federal Government is authorised to take up full diplomatic relations with foreign countries other than the United States, Britain and France, "because the High Commissioners in Germany are a channel of negotiations between the Federal Republic and the Allied Governments."—United Press.

MAGINOT LINE WAS NEVER DEFEATED

PARIS. A smartly uniformed aide any day now will place a thick file on General Dwight D. Eisenhower's desk in his office overlooking the Arc de Triomphe.

The file will bear the words "Top Secret: Maginot Line."

After eleven years the famed Maginot Line is back in the news again.

French military chiefs want General Eisenhower to incorporate the Maginot Line into the overall SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers Europe) operations plan.

Has the Maginot Line a future in Western Europe defence? I went to the French War Office to find out. As I walked down long corridors from one office to another and found the Maginot Line treated as a hush-hush secret weapon I decided that at least the French think so.

The report to General Eisenhower will contain the findings of a French Senate committee which recently toured the line and found it in excellent condition, 95 per cent maintained by a skeleton corps of army engineers.

'UNPARDONABLE'

"It will be unpardonable to neglect such possibilities of defence," said the senators.

Large stretches of the 200-mile-long line with its 300 huge forts and thousands of strong-points built at the cost of some £200,000,000, could be rearmoured at little cost and fit into the Western European defence plan, the committee stated.

At present the Maginot Line is unarmed. In 1943 the Germans stripped it of all its guns. "This is nothing to worry about," a high-ranking French officer told me. "New guns would be needed anyhow. American factories could replace these guns within a week."

The economical French are naturally loath to see £200,000,000 idle—but could the Maginot Line defend Europe in event of Russian attack?

IN NEW WAR

A number of French defence experts told me it could. If Russia made a frontal attack, Communist armies might well advance deep into Western Germany with spearheads reaching the French frontier.

Then a re-armed, fully-manned Maginot Line would give Allied forces a vital breathing space—time to regroup for counter-attacks, time to allow Allied air forces to smash enemy lines of communications, time for the already planned Atlantic airlift to shuttle U.S. divisions into Europe.

French army men point out something little realised in Britain and America. In 1940 the Maginot Line was never defeated. Before the war the Belgian Government refused to continue the line to the sea. France fell, it will be recalled, with the German attacking through Belgium and Holland.

LINE HELD

In mid-June, 1940, after the capitulation of Belgium, the evacuation of the BEF, the collapse of French armies in the North, and the fall of Paris, the Germans made an all-out attack on the Maginot Line.

It did not, to their surprise, fall like a bad apple. Stukas pounded it from the air, every type of heavy armour piercing shell was used, the famed German 88s blasted it at point blank range, suicide squads of pioneers tried to approach cupolas and thrust explosives through observation slits.

But the line held. More than 9,000 shells were hurled at Landferfang fort alone, without success.

Then the Germans tried to persuade the defenders to surrender with leaflets and loudspeaker propaganda, telling the pollux that the British had deserted them, they were alone, and Paris had fallen. From their underground positions the Maginot Line men continued to blast the Germans.

When the French Government ordered the cease-fire on June 25 the guns of the Maginot Line were still firing. Some forts refused to surrender until July 1, when the Germans were forced to recognise them as troops undefeated in battle and allowed the captured officers to retain their swords.

WATCHING BRIEF

From 1940-45 ex-Maginot soldiers took jobs as forest workers, wood-cutters, and policemen in areas near parts of the line they knew. During the German occupation they kept an unpaid watching brief, so that mechanical equipment was not looted. They greased machinery and pumped dry flooded areas.

The Maginot Line owes its excellent condition today to the

"The Cold Table"

STOCKHOLM — The Swedish smorgasbord, or "cold table" is world-famed, and is usually available at most places used by tourists.

A typical smorgasbord menu may include herring, salmon, raw minced beef and egg, smoked reindeer flesh, cold meat of all kinds, poultry, cucumber, omelette and sausages. The emphasis is on "include," and even then the smorgasbord is merely an hors d'oeuvre. After that you start eating.

Most meals are cheap — the more so, strangely, if they are

A symposium spotlighting the culinary offerings and eating habits of Europe and America, compiled by some of our correspondents high-class. The Grand Hotel restaurant, representative of the best restaurants in Stockholm, serves its main lunch for about 7s.

For this you can have a choice of hors d'oeuvre, omelette, fish, veal, lamb, sausages, various egg dishes, ham, and countless vegetables.

Hundreds of restaurants in Stockholm serve a lunch consisting of bread and butter, one hors d'oeuvre, and one main dish for 1s 6d.

Even the rougher "beer cafes" cannot provide anything much cheaper. Evening meals cost about the same as lunches—with extra if the restaurant provides music. Wines are expensive, but guaranteed good. Coffee is 1s a pot, or 4d a cup.—Cyril Marshall.

Order Drinks

GENEVA—A meal in Geneva can be just about as expensive as your pocket book can stand.

In the least expensive restaurant lunch will cost between 6s and 7s depending on whether you have soup for your first course or something fancier. The rest of the lunch might be made up of rice ("risotto" style), breaded pork chop with chips, salads, fruit or ice cream, and cheese.

Perhaps the most important thing to remember is that the restaurant will expect you to drink something besides water with your meal. A small bottle of beer costs a shilling, coffee another shilling. Add 10 percent service charge and you will find that your 7s lunch has now cost you almost 10s.

Finally, in the expensive class your lunch will start at 16s for sole or asparagus with mayonnaise, chicken, salad, ice cream, cheese or fruit. Add the extras—say half a bottle of Burgundy—and the 16s somehow turns into £1 6s 8d.—Victor Sankey.

Classic Dish

BRUSSELS—The classic Belgian dish is beefsteak and chips. You never escape the chips, which are sold from barrows at every street corner at enormous prices. The minimum quantity, a mean pennyworth, costs 8½d.

Small restaurants give you only the choice of beefsteak, veal or pork chop, and the cost is not below 5s. More expensively the beefsteak comes with a large nut of butter scalded melting on its summit.

For an extra couple of shillings you can have a sauce bearnaise, or if your tastes are democratic, you have a mayonnaise—made with real eggs, and plenty of them — to eat with your chips.

Mayonnaise is probably the most national of all food items in Belgium. This it is which adds the final charm to another Belgian dish, crevettes—tomatoes stuffed with mayonnaise-steeped shrimps. You have to pay 3s 6d for this if you want to be sure the tomato has been properly hollowed out so that there's a good supply of shrimps. The same applies to the shrimps of the popular shrimp croquettes.

Mussels are another popular delicacy. I know one restaurant which has 35 ways of serving them, and you can make a good meal of them for about 5s.

Belgian cooking, though good is unimaginative. On the other hand, materials are unstinted, and plenty of butter is used.—Gavin Gordon.

Sky's The Limit

NEW YORK—The sky seems to be the limit of prices here. Go to a cheap cafe, for instance, and you will find that a teaspoonful of soup, a slice of real meat, a minute portion of ice cream, and a cup of coffee will cost you 10s.

If that hasn't shaken you how about celery, bread rolls, vegetable soup, a small pork chop and two vegetables, a strawberry sundae and two cups of coffee? Satisfied? You should be—for 13s 6d. Nor have you got out of the restaurant yet. There is a 2s table and corkscrew tip, and, of course, you must have a cocktail, which will take away another 5s.

But think yourself lucky that you haven't been out to dinner at the same restaurant. A dinner for two, including such devastating things as oysters and roast lamb, will cost you up to 25s.

If that doesn't shatter you, don't worry. Just run along to your bank and we will see what we can do at a really expensive restaurant somewhere along Third Avenue. There are two of you, and if the bill has not separated you from your loved one for ever at the end of it all, then you will have "taken her out to dinner" for a mere £35.

One could go on even longer and even more shatteringly, but most of you will have lost interest by now—and anyway there is supper waiting for me at home.—Rodney Campbell.

Meat Problem

LONDON—Prices of restaurant meals in England have rocketed since the withdrawal of a wartime regulation—which extended into the peace—limiting meals to a maximum of 5s.

A lunch at an exclusive West End restaurant now costs about £1 15s inclusive of a cocktail and beer, but not wine. A bottle of fair quality wine will cost about 30s.

On top of this of course is the waiter's tip of at least 10 percent.

For those with less money to spend there is a wide selection of cheaper restaurants where one can get a passable meal for anything from 2s 6d to 5s, but by foreign standards the fare is very modest, often indifferently cooked, and unimaginatively served.

One of the cheapest meals available in London is at one of the excellent "help yourself" restaurants run by a big firm of caterers. Here you get a selection of good, plain well-cooked food, and can eat it in pleasantly decorated surroundings with even an orchestra thrown in free of charge. A light meal here can cost as little as 1s 6d depending on what you choose.

Meat of course is the main problem and supplies are strictly limited. In Soho, London's famous "Little Restaurant" area, where foreign restaurants are mostly in charge, it is generally possible to get steaks, but probably they are horseflesh. They are so well cooked by continental chefs, however, that even those prejudiced against eating horseflesh can find nothing unpleasant about them.—P. Hargreaves.

HOW THE TRAP WAS LAID FOR MAO'S MINIONS

By SYDNEY SMITH

WASHINGTON. SOMETIME this week, from the red-carpeted restrooms of Room 3869 in the Pentagon—the sound-proofed briefing room—the millionth Communist casualty in Korea will be announced.

Whoever he is, that millionth Communist has fallen already. He just has not been counted yet. He lies, or he is a prisoner, somewhere between two green tape lines that represent a 40-mile deep strip across the waist of Korea on the briefing room's map.

Those lines enclose one of the biggest killing traps of any war.

It is the fighting area of the Communists' abortive offensive.

Since the offensive began, the United Nations claim a total of 102,000 to 107,000 Communist casualties. They bring the total Communist casualties in Korea to date to 992,000.

In the Pentagon they call the whole of the past month's Korean battle "Operation Mouse-trap." But they say the Chinese did not fall into it, they were driven into it, "like cattle are driven in the runs of an abattoir," said one officer.

This is how and why the drive was made.

Allied Intelligence knew the Communists had timed an offensive for about May 15. Their concentration area was a triangle, with Chonwon at its peak, posed directly above the 38th Parallel.

General Ridgway, then commanding the 8th Army, at once began preparing a main line of defence. On it he selected "logical avenues of approach" which he screened with hundreds of miles of barbed wire in three double aprons covered by inflating fixed machine-gun positions, patterned minefields and trip flares.

A strip eight to ten miles deep ahead of this line was "boxed" and "circled" by massive artillery and mortar forces which "ranged in" and snared.

On each side of the avenues of approach, artillery ranged in through nearly 300 degrees to the sides and behind.

Then out ahead went a series of tank-led aggressive, probing forces. They blew up and destroyed enemy supplies in the concentration area.

The whole pattern, as I saw it on a Pentagon map, looked like a great hand—the knuckles the main line defence, the wrist, the second line, a mobile reserve division of the arm, and the disrupting probing forces the out-stretched fingers.

Here is how that great limb worked, told by an officer who returned and whom I last saw seven months ago when we shared a drop of bonded Bourbon in a ditch near Pyongyang.

The Communists' build-up area was being destroyed before they could take off—they had to move down and they came at least two weeks before they had intended, and everywhere to the prepared avenues.

One of the biggest killing factors, apart from the eightrille artillery strip, was the use of searchlights at night right on the wire. We learned the trick from the British on the Rhine—searchlights reflected off the clouds.

"It was like shooting 'em down by daylight, and the bazis did, on the barbed wire. When they came on over their dead our units hinged back on each side, and the Communists found themselves running perfectly prepared gauntlets, with our fresh mobile reserves waiting for them at the end."

"It was a slaughter trap, and their first drive cost them 72,000 casualties."

"Their second drive, which began last week, we saw about a week beforehand, and it was an attempt to regain the balance. It has cost them 92,000 to 95,000 casualties so far. We had just repeated the trap system further back."

Pentagon estimates of the casualty ratio so far, not including South Korean, who took the heaviest losses, are 17 Communists to one United Nations soldier.

Including South Koreans the ratio drops to eight to one.

Objection Sustained In Feature Race At Royal Ascot

Ascot, England, June 12.

Royal Ascot, which the British call the greatest race meeting in the world, opened in traditional pomp and splendour today.

Normally the crowds pay more attention to the people than the horses. But they got some racing excitement today when an objection was lodged against the winner of the £3,000 Ascot stakes and it was sustained.

Guerrier, a six-year-old chestnut by War Lord out of La Porcelle and owned by M. Kingsley, was given first place in the £3,000 Ascot Stakes Handicap after apprentice jockey Tommy Mahon claimed that the winner, Royaliste IV, had crossed in front of him.

It was the first objection made at a Royal Ascot meeting since 1916 and the first one sustained since 1920.

T. H. Carey's Mon Prince was given second and Mohamed Pasha's Arkas was third in a photo finish for the places. Time for the 2½ miles was 4:24.3/5.

Queen Elizabeth, in lavender, Princess Elizabeth in grey and Princess Margaret in grey and strawberry, rode in state in open coaches to the Royal enclosure and their box. King George was unable to attend because of his health.

In the first race of the day, Billy Ley On's Ki Ming was beaten by the Begum Aga Khan's Neron in a race 69 yards short of a mile. Mr. Ley On, a Chinese restaurant proprietor, said he has been invited to run Ki Ming at Washington Park and Arlington Park in Chicago later this summer.

William Woodward's Turco II, a failure in both the 2,000 Guineas and the Epsom Derby, won its first race of the season in the last race of the day. The son of Fighting Fox gained a head verdict over Kameron in a photo finish in the £1,200 added St. James Palace Stakes. Associated Press.

THE GOLD VASE

Ascot, June 12. Mrs. R. Foster's Faux Pas won the Gold Vase, run over two miles, this afternoon. Miss Dorothy Paget's Snowdon was second and the Aga Khan's Shahanshah third. A field of 15 ran.

The betting was 6 to 1 Faux Pas, 20 to 1 Snowdon, 8 to 1 Shahanshah. King's Colour was the 5 to 1 favourite.

Faux Pas won by a head with one and a half lengths separating ing Snowdon and Shahanshah. Reuter.

ROYAL HUNT CUP

London, June 12. Twenty-four probable runners and jockeys for the Royal Hunt Cup, running over seven furlongs and 155 yards at 2.45 p.m. GMT at Ascot tomorrow, are:

Hyperbole (A. Breasley), Fastnet Rock (W. Rickaby), Kelling (Gordon Richards), Val Dassa (N. Sellwood), Rising Flame (E. Britt), Fair Judgment (E. Mercer), Refund (T. Lowrey), Rodogal (L. ## NOT "DOCTORED"

Ascot, Berkshire, June 12. The Comte de Brignac, the racing manager of the well-known French owner, M. Marcel Boussac, stated today that the saliva tests taken on Nyngal after the Derby had proved to be negative.

"This is just what we expected," he said, "because there appeared no possibility of the horse having been tampered with."

Nyngal, M. Boussac's only runner for the Derby, behaved very badly in the paddock before the race and tests were taken of his sweat and saliva because it was thought that he might have been doped by a race-gang.

The fact that he was heavily backed just before the race seemed to point to this possibility.

The Boussac stable were, however, quite certain at the time that the colt was merely upset by the blunders he was using and by the huge crowd and that no one had "doctored" him. Reuter.

by the award of an indirect free-kick. They say, with Wales and Ireland, this is too confusing.

Having just had a rough house in Vienna, during their defeat by Austria, the Scotsmen want this obstruction and holding to be properly penalised—by a full free-kick.

Once again, the Scotsmen are right. The English Association is only playing hide-in-the-ring with the Continentals in cluttering up the game with these unpopular indirect free-kicks.

WORTH IT To get Scotland's change on the books may mean waiting a year, but that is well worth while. An elbowing ban would rudely shake foreign football, but not before it is time.

I hope Scotland will also stick to their guns in seeking to find a compromise in the vexed and rubble-rousing situation surrounding charges on the goal-keeper.

Removing these two cankers was a prime reason for Britain's return to the world-governing FIFA.

As all good anglers know, there can be too many minnows in a stream. So a hundred competitors have been removed from the FA Cup and, before long, they may thin out 200 more.

The aim is to restrict the Cup to the cream of the country's clubs, amateur and professional. When that day comes there will be no "English" Cup-ties on village greens or minor grounds. The Cup will be restricted to 64 Football League clubs and some 200 potential giant-killers.

This sounds severe, but is it? For all but fifty of these competitors, winning the Cup is still a million-to-one chance.

Orson Welles Talks About Rita Hayworth, Hollywood —And The Life Of A Rebel

By JAMES DOW

I looked at Orson Welles across the lunch table. I tried to size him up. Was this tanned, bland, handsomely ugly man a genius or a charlatan?

He might have been either, with his blazing eyes, his rough untamable hair, his formidable jaw. He looked exactly like his legend.

You could imagine him terrifying New York with a broadcast, setting Hollywood by the ears, and producing the "Macbeth" that brought another furious critical storm on his head in England.

He began to talk. His voice is controlled and powerful. He said:

"Yes, I'm a legend—aren't we all if we step outside the rut? Somerset Maugham is a legend, so were Alexander Woolcott and Bernard Shaw. So is Rita Hayworth."

"And life is hard when you're a legend."

"It's been hard for Rita Hayworth recently. Some of our papers have been attacking her. Yes, I can assure you that Rita is a nice girl, a lovely, unspoiled and very natural girl."

"There's no harm in her, and the idea that she entered into a serious, thing like marriage just for the fun or the publicity of it is all rubbish."

SCANDALISED

Why shouldn't she marry the guy, even if he is an Indian Prince? When she did that, you see, she was being thoroughly American.

In fact, in many ways Rita is the epitome of something American that the Old World is apt to react against—subconsciously, I think—in a critical way.

She wanted her prince, Americans—the real non-conformist Americans—would say: "Why the heck not?" But the Old World is scandalised, or is inclined to think that it ought to be scandalised, when the marriage breaks up.

Look right through Rita Hayworth's life and you will find that she has always been genuine and honest—and thoroughly natural.

I still admire her tremendously. He took a second helping of goose, explaining that he never eats breakfast. All the time the talk flowed out of him.

"And I ever try to do, is to remain simple, to be myself, to have some real integrity in a world that won't stay simple.

Orson Welles as Cagliostro in "Black Magic."

"Why do people regard me as a rebel, a freak? Because the world is becoming too conformist. Thirty years ago they wouldn't have noticed me half as much."

"It's happening everywhere. It's not only in Russia that the individual is losing his individuality. It's the process of the epoch. We're becoming mass-produced men."

He waved his surprisingly delicate brown hand, oblivious of the fashionable crowd gazing at Harry Lime and Citizen Kane. Nothing could stop him talking.

"I'm not the only man trying to be myself. Behind the build-up Somerset Maugham has that some simplicity. Bernard Shaw had it, too, and look what they tried to make of him! I remember him, walking me down to his gate when I was a boy, and talking to me with the greatest simplicity as if I were as grown up as he. The legend business started with me because I really didn't want to be an actor. I only took to the job in Dublin because I was broke and a painter. And I definitely didn't want to go to Hollywood."

IMPOSSIBLE DEMANDS

"When they wanted me I made all the most impossible demands and to my astonishment they thought I was terrific."

So he went to Hollywood—the man who was roaming the world and reading Homer at 11, playing leading roles in Shakespeare at 15, and writing at 16 an annotation of the Bard that is now a textbook in U. S. schools. What does he think of Hollywood? Listen to him.

"I could have made a fortune in Hollywood but (a) I didn't particularly want to make a fortune and (b) I didn't want to be hired by anybody. "Well, I'm on my own now. It has taken me ten tough years. "But now I'm a capitalist. I do the hiring. I can do what I like."

"It's no use working to what the public wants. I don't think the public ever demands the right things, but it often likes what it doesn't ask for."

"I'm going to do what I want and I hope that the public likes it. If it doesn't, I'm dead."

He chose a Havana with great care, and put a second in his pocket. He smoked with enjoyment. He enjoyed everything—his meal, his wine, his talk—as he enjoys life. I asked him about his future in films.

He said: "I wasn't satisfied with 'Macbeth' though it made the literary men argue in public on the first night. So I had to do another Shakespeare film. 'Othello' is my satisfaction. It is the best film I have made. And it is all mine."

"Whatever 'Othello' makes it will pay for my next film, 'Noah'."

"Why Noah? There was just a moment when God hesitated about washing mankind off the face of the earth. He decided to give Noah a break."

"Isn't that something? God's mistake—or the start of a wonderful experiment?"

"Perhaps we have forgotten that life is this experiment. We are too ready to accept it as it is dictated out to us."

"To make this tremendous experiment of life worth while every individual who has anything new or different in him has to make his contribution as big and as important as he can."

"What is the real Orson Welles looking for? I don't want you to romanticise this—that you would be more legend—but if you must have an answer it is 'God'."

"I can't put it in any other way. Half the world is searching for God and the other half running away from Him. It's as simple as that."

I came away slightly limp but sure of one thing: Rita Hayworth, the girl he once married, spoke the truth when she said: "You can't live 24 hours out of 24 with a genius."

Ivor Novello's Cavalcade To Be Filmed

THE success expected for the recently-completed, more-or-less British musical film, "Happy Go Lovely," with Vera-Ellen, David Niven, and Cesar Romero, which you should be seeing soon, may trigger off a spate of attempts by British film makers to jump on the band wagon.

A Technicolor version of the life of Ivor Novello, based on the recently published biography by Peter Noble, is being considered by Associated British Pictures, and Noble is at the moment preparing a screen adaptation.

The intention is that The Novello Story should develop into a cavalcade of the British Theatre from the 1914-18 war to the present day and feature all the Novello song hits from "Keep The Home Fires Burning" to "Some Day My Heart Will Awake."

Stars Galore

STARS WHO MADE their names in Novello productions—Cicely Courtneidge, Peter Graves, Vivien Leigh, Mary Ellis and Robert Newton among them—will be enticed to join the cast.

But the No. 1 problem is: Who should play Novello?

Seems simple enough to us. Barry Sinclair not only resembles his former boss but has deputised for him throughout his career and knows more about Novello than any man alive.

But then, Sinclair is not a film "name," which may count for more than being the best man for the job.

KATHARINE HEPBURN was being pestered by cameramen for "just one picture of herself drinking a glass of milk at a reception."

On being told by a patient girl from a fashion magazine that it was rather unusual to drink milk at a cocktail party she retorted: "Well, it's rather unusual to have a cocktail party at twelve o'clock mid-day."

Hani's also heard the popular story of how columnists get their duodenal ulcers?

TWO FOOTBALL CANKERS NEED ATTENTION

Says IVAN SHARPE

Two football cankers need attention. One is scientific obstruction—elbowing, holding, nudging—as widely exploited abroad.

The other is whether the goal-keeper shall be open to charging in the penalty-area, or only in the goal-area, or, as wrongly obtains abroad, whether he shall not be charged at all.

Louis Savold Fight Is Far From Being A Sellout

Labelled by sports writers as the "Battle of the Aged" and "Battle of the Over-age Destroyers," tomorrow's Lee Savold-Joe Louis bout is likely to draw one of the smallest crowds in history for an important heavyweight fight.

Savold, 35, holder of the British-style world title, meets former champion Louis, 37, at the Polo Grounds Baseball Park at 9 p.m. EST (2 a.m. GMT Thursday, 11 a.m. Hongkong time Thursday). Advance sales indicate they are likely to feel lonely out there.

The probable crowd is calculated at 15,000 in a stadium seating 60,000. The gate is predicted to be about $100,000.

Louis gets 35 per cent of the net gate and Savold 25 per cent, with similar division of theatre, television revenue.

The 15-rounder will not be broadcast and television is restricted to a closed circuit of selected theatres in Cleveland, Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, and Albany.

For the first time in years, the International Boxing Club will start the sale of general admission tickets early Wednesday morning.

NO FEAR NOW They used to be afraid that tickets would be counter-fetted.

Frank Butler, a London newspaperman here for the fight, said if it were held in London it would have drawn about $250,000.

Louis remains a heavy favourite with unofficial odds of about 14-6, but Savold's camp

APOLOGY

In the issue of TIME of 12th February, 1951 on page 20, an article appeared under the heading "HONGKONG—Keep Right On Sittling", which contains the following extract:—

"Passports to European countries were selling for as high as $8,000 apiece.
On nearby Ice House
Street the firm of Lo & Lo, Solicitors, reported a thriving business".

The obvious inference to be drawn from these words and which in fact has been drawn from them is that Messrs. Lo & Lo were parties to some illegal and/or criminal trafficking and the sale of passports to Europe, and had made large illegal gains thereby, and had made some report as to their business, including the above.

Such an implication was never intended by us, and we are glad to state that such an inference is wholly untrue and unfounded and the words constitute a most serious libel on Messrs. Lo & Lo.

Messrs. Lo & Lo have commenced actions against us the undersigned. Upon our assurances, which they accept, that we had no intention whatever of publishing any statement which reflects in any way on them, they have stated that they will discontinue their actions for libel upon the following terms:—

- (a) publication of this statement.
- (b) payment by each of us
the undersigned of a substantial sum to the Social Welfare Officer of the Hongkong Government for distribution to such charities
as he may think fit.
- (c) a complete indemnity
for legal costs.

ATOMIC TEST DESCRIBED

Washington, June 12.
Senator Brien McMahon,
Chairman of the United States
Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, today described the recent atomic tests at Eniwetok in the Pacific as entirely successful.

The Committee was given a report today by the military and civilian experts who conducted the tests.

The timing of the tests indicated that faster progress was being made by American atomic experts in designing new weapons, Senator Mc-Mahon added.

A New York Post columnist,
Mr. Robert Allen, said that more than 8,000 persons took part in the tests, and the blast of the main explosion was five times more powerful than any atomic bomb so far exploded.

The glare of the main explosion was so terrific that it momentarily blinded key observers despite the fact that they were wearing special glasses and were 10 miles away, he wrote.
Also, the heat was so intense that they felt it in a marked manner.

"The experimental bomb was exploded from a very high multistoreyed tower. No trace of this tower was found afterwards.

"The same was true of the animals on the island. They were completely annihilated.

"However scientists were able to return to the island within two and a half hours after the blast and to approach within 850 yards of it without danger to themselves."—Reuter.

MORTAR ATTACK BY REDS

Bangkok, June 12.
Three hundred well-armed Communists shelled Yamethin, a town south of Mandalay, with mortars, killing some civilians, today's Army communiqué said.
Government forces gave heavy gun battle and chased the Communists out of the town limits.
The communiqué said. Several Communists were killed in the battle, it added.—Reuter.

Dockers To Lift Ban

Sydney, June 12.
The Waterside Workers' Federation announced tonight that its ban on the handling of New Zealand ships in sympathy with the New Zealand dock strike will be lifted from 10 p.m. G.M.T. tonight.

Melbourne dockers decided on May 23 to impose the ban on "black" shipping, and other Australian ports followed their lead.

The Government moved Servicemen into the docks to handle some idle ships while in Brisbane cane farmers loaded their own sugar onto a freighter declared "black" by the strikers.
On June 8 the Labour Minister, Mr. Harold Holt, announced that the Government had applied to a Court of Arbitration for a rule nisi calling on the Waterside Workers' Federation to show cause why it should not be de-registered, because of the ban.
—Reuter.

Paris Farce Continues

Paris, June 12.
The Four-Power deputies met for three and a half hours today but drew no nearer agreement on an agenda for a Four-Power meeting.
It was their 6th meeting.
Soviet Deputy Andrei
Gromyko delivered a two-hour reply to British Deputy Foreign Minister Ernest Davies, who arraigned Russia for her actions in Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Berlin, Greece and towards the Marshall Plan in Europe.
They agreed on one thing, however, to meet again tomorrow at 3 p.m. G.M.T. (12 p.m. Hongkong time on Wednesday).—Associated Press.

Wall St. Depressed By Selling

New York, June 12. A moderate amount of selling, based to a large extent on quick profit-taking, depressed the stock market today. Just about every major division joined in the fall. Losers showed up especially in rails, oils, steels, motors, chemicals and air lines. Losses extended from a few cents into the $1-to-$2 range, with only a few leaders going beyond that limit. Transfers were 1,200,000. Two hundred and eighty-five issues advanced and 503 declined. Eighteen new highs and 41 new lows were recorded. Among the gainers were Beech Aircraft, Sunray Oil and Benguet Mining (the 10th most active issue). Stumblers included Sinclair Oil, Northern Pacific, American Airlines, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Cities Service, United Airlines, American Cyanamid and Zenith Radio. Dow Jones Averages: Stocks 91.13, Industrials 250.57, Rails 78.21, Utilities 42.54. —Associated Press.

Price Ceilings On Coconut Under Fire

Washington, June 12. Comelia Balmaceda, Philippine Secretary of Commerce and Industry, plans to fight to get United States price ceilings on desiccated coconut removed. Balmaceda told the United Press that the ceilings threatened the extinction of the desiccated coconut industry. The Secretary began a series of conferences with government officials to see if the controls could not be removed entirely. No ceilings were placed on copra and coconut oil which are closely related to desiccated coconut. As a result the desiccated coconut was caught in a "fatal" price squeeze. Balmaceda arrived in the capital from Boston where he addressed a Harvard Business School Association banquet. —United Press.

Copra Unchanged
New York, June 12. Copra was nominally unchanged at $1.75 per cwt. C.I.F. from Pacific Coast. Coconut oil was offered at 13 1/4 cents a pound, F.O.B. mills. —United Press.

Korea War Slows Down Festival Bookings

London, June 12. The situation in Korea is slowing down American bookings for the Festival of Britain. The Pail Mall office of the United States Lines report that reservations are below the normal figure for this time of the year. The British Travel Association, who were hoping for a record number of 200,000 visitors from U.S.A., now fear that this figure will not be attained. An association official said: "Reverse in Korea had a marked effect on tourist traffic last summer and we are anxious about the present position." "Inquiries from prospective visitors continue to flow in, but bookings are being delayed." "Bookings from the Commonwealth and the Continent are not so much affected." "After the Festival opening matters may improve. The trouble is that there may be a peak rush that will strain shipping facilities." —London Express Service.
